4-H Members Work on State Fair Plans

Special Attention Being Given for Their Exhibits

Many 4-H members throughout the county are looking forward to showing their projects at the State Fair this year. Some members have been giving their livestock extra care with the intention of Pettis county winning the trophy again this year. Pettis county 4-H clubs won the trophy the past two years and if they win the trophy this year, it will become a permanent award.

Three members of the Longwood Neighbors 4-H club have baby beef projects this year. Not to be outdone by the boys, one of the girls, Eleanor Leftwich, is caring for two beef calves which she plans to show at the fair this summer. George Harvey, another member is fattening two fine looking Shorthorn calves in preparation for the fair. Jimmy Harvey, a cousin of George, is also planning to show at the fair this year. He is feeding two Angus calves as well as doing woodwork for his project.

Other members of the Longwood Neighbors club are carrying such projects as corn, row and ilter, dairy, home furnishings and cooking.

4-H club members know the benefits that come from carrying out their projects following recommended practices to completing. Project work is not only educational, but is also profitable and by working together, club members learn cooperation and how scientific methods can be applied to agriculture to the benefit of all.

Many rural youths, who started 4-H work early, have financed their way through college or have started farming in their own from the proceeds of their projects. Let's all work a little harder, not only for the benefits which come to use as individuals, as a club, or as a county, but for the contribution we can make toward a better world for all.

Pointers on Spraying in Weedy Corn

Some Degree of Injury May be Caused by Spray

Numerous questions are being asked about spraying weedy corn with 2,4-D, says Roy I. Coplen, County Extension Agent.

The use of 2,4-D to assist in controlling broad leaved annual weeds in corn fields is proving to be practical and economical. This chemical hormone spray can be expected to increase corn yields by destroying excessive weeds that may not be removed by normal cultivation and times may even save a complete crop where weather conditions prevent working the soil.

2,4-D will, however, seldom entirely replace cultivation in growing the corn crop. 2,4-D does not control grassy weeds.

Some degree of injury to corn may be expected from 2,4-D sprays regardless of dosage. Brittleness, lodging, twisting stalks and deformed brace roots may all be manifested to a degree. This damage ordinarily will not be reflected in yields where care is taken to evenly distribute only the recommended quantities of 2,4-D. Brittle corn is subject to breakage by wind or cultivator contact. Fortunately this brittle condition is of temporary duration, being at its worst from three to four days after spraying and seldom being serious after a week.

Any of the three types of 2,4-D formulations—esters, amine salts, or sodium salt—may be successfully used in spraying corn.

Hard To Kill Weeds

Esters are more effective on hard to kill weeds, but are more likely to cause injury to the corn. Esters also vaporize readily and are apt to damage other nearby sensitive plants. Where esters are used the dosage should be kept to the minimum amount recommended per acre.

The amine salts are only slightly less effective on hard to kill weeds than esters and are safer to use on corn. Since amine salts vaporize less there is also less danger to nearby sensitive plants.

The sodium salt does not give as good a kill on hard to kill weeds but works just as well on easy to kill weeds. It does not vaporize. Growing conditions rather than size of the corn plant influence

Production of 249 Dairy Cows In May Valued $8,733.30

Two hundred forty nine cows were on test in the Pettis County Dairy Herd Improvement Association for May. These cows are in 13 herds. The average milk produced per cow was 338 lbs. containing 34.3 lbs. butter fat. The value of product per cow was $35.80 or a total for all cows of $8,733.30.

The five herds with highest average butterfat per cow belonged to:

- (1) Earl Wood, with 10 cows of which were dry, with an average per cow of 46.1 lbs. fat.
- (2) E. C. Stevens, 30 cows, 3 dry, 40.8 lbs. fat per cow.
- (3) Lee Dow, 24 cows, 1 dry, 38.2 lbs. fat each.
- (4) John Blum, 14 cows, 2 dry, 37.7 lbs. fat each.
- (5) Van Dyne & Peters, 25 cows, 4 dry, 37.2 lbs. fat each.

The fifteen high producing cows are reported below with names of owners, cow's name or number and pounds fat produced for the month.

damage. Spraying should be avoided during time when corn plants are growing rapidly, especially when temperatures are exceptionally high.

The rate of application of the actual 2,4-D equivalent per acre is important. The recommendations made by the manufacturers should be followed. If no instructions are given by the maker, the actual 2,4-D equivalent contained should be determined. This is necessary in order to determine the correct amount to apply per acre.

On fourth pound acid equivalent per acre on corn is the recommendation when the esters are used. If an amine salt or sodium salt is used the application recommended is 1/2 pound acid equivalent per acre.

If ester form is used apply per acre 1/2 pound of 50%; 4 pound of 60%; 3/4 pound of 70% and 3 pound of 80%.

If the amine or sodium salt is used apply per acre 1 pound of 50%; 3/4 pound of 60%; 7/8 pound of 70%; and 4 pound of 80%.

Corn fields usually will be sprayed with a boom type sprayer equipped with low volume spray nozzles. A pressure of 30 to 40 pounds is sufficient. Height of boom should be regulated so as to give complete coverage without overlapping. When spraying small weeds in large corn (30 inches or larger) the use of nozzle extension is suggested to assure adequate coverage of weeds that are often protected by corn leaves. The use of extensions will frequently make it possible to obtain good weed coverage and at the same time avoid excessive coverage of the corn plant.

Vaccinate to Control Spread Of Fowl Pox

Why take a chance and lose next winter's poultry profits from fowl pox, warns County Agent Roy I. Coplen. Since fowl pox is so widely scattered over the state, poultry producers are going ahead and vaccinating the pullets to head off any possible outbreak of this disease on their farms.

Fowl pox may occur at any time during the year but is more prevalent in fall and winter. It can be spread on feed sacks, poultry cages, clothing, shoes, birds, mosquitoes, direct contact, and many other ways. There are 3 typical forms of this disease. Any one may occur. (1) raised yellow or brown scabs on comb, face, and wattles, (2) yellow cankers found in the corners of the mouth, throat, and windpipe, (3) a discharge from the eyes and nostrils. The disease may be confused with colds and roup.

Fowl pox is easily controlled by vaccination. The pullet flock should be vaccinated between the ages of 8 to 12 weeks (using chicken vaccine). One good time to do this is when the pullets are moved to range.

Different methods are used in vaccinating the birds, but one of the most practical methods is called the follicle method. This consists of plucking 3 to 5 feathers from the outside of the leg. The vaccine is then applied to the opening in the feather follicle with a small camel-hair brush that comes with the vaccine.

Examine the birds after 8 to 10 days to check on the "takes". A scab varying in size will be found if the vaccination was successful. For more complete information on the control of fowl pox both in young and older birds can be found in Circular 445 "Control of Fowl Pox" available at the Extension office.

Loans Be Made Storage Bins

Information Is Available From Committee

Farmers who need additional storage bins on or near their farms are urged to get in touch with the local County Agricultural Conservation committee for information on the government's new farm storage loan program. Jas. A. Harvey, chairman of the Pettis County Committee, reports that some details of the program have been received in the local office and forms will soon be received so that the program will be under way in a few days.

Under the storage construction plan, the Commodity Credit Corporation will either guarantee loans made by local lending agencies, or, if producers cannot or do not wish to obtain credit from other sources, CCC will make the loans direct.

Loans will cover up to 85 percent of the cost of the storage structure or 45 cents per bushel of the rated storage capacity, whichever is the smaller. The loans will be repayable on an annual installment plan, over a period of not more than 5 years. Provision is made for extension of these loans in instances of crop failure, etc.

The proposed structure must be an eligible storage structure under the government price-support loan program. Storage payments earned on the structure will be applied against the construction loan. Also, proceeds from price-support loans or purchase agreements will be applied up to the amount of the annual payment. Banks and other lending institutions wishing to take part in the storage loan program may obtain the necessary forms and instructions from the county agricultural conservation committee. After approval by the commodity office of the Production and Marketing administration, the names of such approved lending agencies will be obtainable from the County ACP office.

Farmers Need Places to Store Grain

As grain growers of Pettis county consider the possibility of providing additional storage space for their coming wheat crop, they are asking about the cost of such construction and what type of grainery to build. County Agent Roy I. Coplen gives some information on this.

He points out that new simple construction of the permanent type would cost from 30c to 50c per bushel of storage capacity. However, such a building could be used for a number of years, and the cost per year would be much less than this. Of course, if the building is to be elaborate the original cost would be higher.

Even more economical storage often can be provided by remodeling old buildings. In doing this, the supports of the building should be inspected and, if necessary, strengthened. In the bin itself, a strong building paper of good quality may be needed if there are many cracks.

Since rats represent a menace to all stored grain, preventing their entry into the bin is of prime importance. Helps in doing this are to stop up holes around the foundation, keep scrap lumber piles from accumulating near the building, and keep weeds and grass that hide rat burrows from growing near the buildings. The County Extension Office has information on controlling rats, and has a circular "Plans for Storage Buildings" which show some general types of grain storage. Detailed plans for these can be ordered.

Shorten Time On Lambing

Season Reduced To 26 Days By Harry Runge R-1.

Having all the lambs from his 60 ewes arrive within a 26 day period was a new experience for Henry Runge of Sedalia, Route 4, but definitely one that was planned.

Henry was in the Balanced Farming Association in 1948. Last summer he told of his difficulties each year in breeding his ewes in the fall. They were so fat from lespedeza pasture he said that it was impossible to get enough gain to have any effect in shortening the lambing period. Usually his lambs started coming in February and strung out till May.

Associate Agent Merle Vaughn and County Agent Roy I. Coplen suggested that he shut the ewes on short pasture for several weeks and then put them on good succulent pasture a few days before turning in the rams.

Mr. Runge followed the recommendation to the letter, shutting the ewes in a small pasture where there was plenty of shade and water but little palatable grass. This was done in early September. About October 5th the ewes and rams were turned into a new pasture that had not been grazed all summer.

The new lamb crop started coming on March 10th and the last one was dropped April 5. The total lambing season lasted only 26 days.

There are several advantages here besides getting the lambing season over as quickly as possible. With the lambs bunched at one age, most of them can go to market at the same time. Also there will be less late lambs, the lambs can be weaned earlier and the ewes allowed to pick up some flesh before breeding season.

River Yields Up Bodies of Nine Persons

Ruin From Potomac, Shenandoah Floods, Runs into Millions

By The Associated Press

The flooded Potomac and Shenandoah rivers receded today and yielded up the bodies of nine persons drowned in the rain-swept area over the weekend.

A dozen persons were reported missing after flash floods early Saturday sent the two rivers plunging over their banks. Petersburg, Va., was almost isolated for about 36 hours, but communications were restored yesterday.

The angry waters wrecked 400 homes and approximately 245 other buildings there.

Damage from the flood may run into the millions of dollars, one official said. Meantime, health authorities began a program of vaccinations against the threat of flood-polluted water.

Showers in Maine

Light showers fell in Portland, Me., where a drought has parched the surrounding New England vicinity since the Memorial day weekend.

The weather bureau said, however, that the showers "didn't give much relief to the official drought and conservation officials."

Farmers and conservation officials are ready to do anything to help ease the drought of forest fires and save wilting crops.

Elsewhere in the country, seasonable warm and humid weather was forecast for today.

Typical temperatures yesterday ranged from 64 to 74 degrees at Huntington, W. Va.; 61 at Cincinnati and Pierre, N. Dak.; 52 at Chicago, 53 at Kansas City, and 50 at Phoenix; San Francisco reported a high of 67, and Los Angeles 76. Readings in the southeast were about normal.

Enters Plea of Not Guilty

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 20.—(AP)—Margaret Waters (Gypsy) Horn, University of Missouri co-ed, charged with arson in a rooming house fire here May 14, pleaded not guilty in circuit court here today and waived formal arraignment.

The formal charge against Mrs. Horn is third degree arson, Prosecuting Attorney Howard B. Lang apparently having changed the charge from first degree after preliminary hearing evidence showed to one in the rooming house at the time of the fire.

Attorneys failed to agree upon a trial date for Mrs. Horn, Lang asking that the case be set for fall while her attorney, Edwin C. Orr, urged an immediate trial.

Judge W. H. Flinn decided to defer a decision on the date until tomorrow.

Gray said he hopes veterans will begin receiving checks "some time in January, 1939," with payment substantially completed in the first half of that year.

The dividend payment has been hoped for since the war.

A permanent announcement of the action was put out by VA yesterday, but recalled because Gray had not yet signed the order. He signed it this morning.

Minister Files Damage Suit

ROCK PORT, Mo., June 20.—(AP)—An argument involving two ministers resulted today in the filing of a damage suit against one of them.

The Rev. Ellis J. Hough, Kansas City, filed a $30,000 damage suit against the Rev. Kenneth J. Bressler, Fairfax, Mo.

Mr. Hough, former pastor of the Tarkio, Mo., Presbyterian church, charged he suffered a broken nose a week ago last Sunday when Mr. Bressler punched him in the nose.

The Fairfax minister pleaded guilty last week to a charge of common assault in the case and was fined $25 by Magistrate S. F. Weir.

The Kansas City minister asks $10,000 actual and $20,000 punitive damages.

At the hearing it was brought out that the argument between the two stemmed from a marriage ceremony in the Methodist church at Fairfax of which Mr. Bressler is the pastor.

James R. Shearn, Tarkio, and his bride, Miss Wilma Wright, of Fairfax, had asked Mr. Hough to perform the ceremony in the Methodist church. The argument between the ministers followed.

Meanwhile the wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harold Park, Jr., of the Fairfax Presbyterian church.

Two of her daughters, Billie Faye, 16, and Sally, 15, were forced to go with her by the drunken husband. Both daughters stood beside her on a wooded hillside road as she was struck three times with a rope the night of June 3.

Two men, both seized by the hand at the Brighton home, also were hogged. They first were threatened with hanging. A third man was left off because he was a cripple.

Excommunicate Church 'Reds'

VATICAN CITY, June 20.—(AP)—The Roman Catholic church today excommunicated members of the government sponsored Catholic Action Society of Communist-dominated Czechoslovakia.

The sacred congregation of the holy office issued a decree which condemned the group as a schismatic and a fraudulent label.

The decree, published in the Vatican newspaper, declared:

"Recently the opponents of the Catholic church in Czechoslovakia founded a so-called Catholic Action by which they tried to induce the Catholics to desert the Catholic church and to deny obedience to the legitimate pastors of the church."

Archbishop Josef Beran, head of the Catholic church in Czechoslovakia, has denounced the Communist-led group. Yesterday at mass in the Cathedral of St. Vitus in Prague, he was shouted down shrilly by hecklers when he began a sermon condemning his denunciation of government acts against the church. Church-state tension is high in Czechoslovakia in reaction to the conditions which existed in Hungary before the jailing of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty on charges of treason. Hungarians connected with that were excommunicated by the Roman Catholic church.

Denied Giving Away Secrets

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(AP)—Judith Coplon repeated today her denial that she ever gave government secrets to Valentine A. Gubeliev.

She further testified in her trial on espionage charges that Gubeliev asked her to give him any government secrets.

Asked by defense attorney Archibald Palmer whether her relationship with the Russian agent, with whom she was arrested March 4, was on a "personal" basis, the tiny brunette replied:

"Definitely."

"As between a man and a maid?"

"Definitely," Miss Coplon repeated.

The former Justice Department official analyst told the jury of eight men and four women that she and Gubeliev had long conversations about literature, but never discussed the nature of her work in the Justice Department.

Palmer lunged back and forth between choice and places as Miss Coplon neared the end of her story—flatly denying that she ever engaged in espionage activity and maintaining loyalty to this country.

Home Blown Up, $400 Missing

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 20.—(AP)—A 20-block area of this city was rocked yesterday by an explosion that destroyed the home of Clarence Ballard, a Burlington railroad contractor.

Ballard estimates the loss at $20,000. Garage doors were blown 300 feet by the blast. Fire which followed the blast completed the destruction.

Ballard, who was out of the city at the time of the explosion, said he was unable to find $400 in currency which was in the house.

Firemen declined to advance an opinion as to the cause of the explosion.

Police Hunt for Dapper Rouge

CHICAGO, June 20.—(AP)—A 73-year-old man with a national police record and 15 aliases was hunted today at the window of a Chicago widow who he wooed.

A detective told the woman who was $5,000 identified him from a rogue's gallery picture. The photo was that of Sigmond Z. Engel. The detective said he had posed as Sam Engel, a Hollywood producer.

The real Sam Engel has been in England a month or longer.

The detective said he disappeared June 5 after he had persuaded attractive Mrs. Rosella Corrigan, 39, and her three two-year-old children to draw $5,000 from a bank and give it to him.

A 19-year-old daughter, Rosella J. Corrigan, identified a rogue's gallery photograph from police files as the man her mother promised to marry and who received the money. He ducked out, the girl said, on the eve of the planned wedding.

Police said "Engle" seemed to have been operating confidence games in Chicago, Milwaukee, New York City, Miami, Philadelphia, Washington and Los Angeles.

Weds White Girl - Paul Robeson

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP)—Paul Robeson, addressing a welcome-home rally shortly after seeing his son wed to a white girl, declared last night he loves the "Soviet people more than any other nation."

The Negro singer told a Harlem audience of 3,000 persons that he loves the Russians "because of their suffering and sacrifices for us, the Negro people, the people of the future of the world."

Robeson, just returned from a tour of the Soviet Union and several countries of Europe, said he would "do any part of an insolent, dominating America to challenge my Americanism."

His Harlem rally was sponsored by the Council of African Affairs, a group led by Attorney General Tom Clark as subversive.

The baritone said he had experienced discrimination as a youth and declared:

"I never accept an inferior role because of my race or color, and by God I never will."

Robeson addressed the rally after attending the wedding of his son, Paul Robeson, Jr., 21-year-old electrical engineer, to Miss Marilyn Thelma Greenberg, 21.

Young Robeson, only child of the baritone and his wife, met his bride at Cornell University where he starred on the football and track teams.

Government Costs Too Much

By Jack Hall

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 20.—(AP)—A freshman Democratic governor—Adlai A. Stevenson of Illinois—said today that all government costs too much and the states had better see their own way in order to prevent quarreling about federal aid.

Stevenson, who has gained mention as a Democratic presidential possibility in 1952, told a reporter he doesn't agree with some of his gubernatorial colleagues in demanding greater federal aid for the spending of U. S. money.

"Government is too expensive at all levels," he said. "We need economy from the township up to Washington. But until we can do a better job in government at local and state levels we ought not to be demanding federal interference at the same time we are asking for more federal funds."

The 1st annual Governors' Conference, beginning its official sessions today, has before it a proposal for a 20 per cent cut in federal aid grants to states—made up by increased state tax collections from electric and phone utility rates.

The federal government would withdraw from those fields.

Baseball Player Continues to Improve

CHICAGO, June 20.—(AP)—Philadelphia Baseball Player Eddie Waite continued to improve today and one of his doctors said he might leave the hospital in three weeks.

Waite was shot and seriously wounded last Wednesday by a 19-year-old brunette typist.

The shooting occurred in the hotel room of Ruth Ann Stabinbaum, who said she was "a crush" on the first baseman.

Stabinbaum's hospital attendants said the 20-year-old ball player's condition today is "good."

The Markets

Chicago Livestock

CHICAGO, June 20.—(AP)—(USDA)—From 7,000 calves active and 10,000 higher on both but

THE touch of a hand on her forehead awakened Bea. In the dim light of the fire she made out Fred Sillwell bending over her, with a cautioning finger across his lips. She folded back her covers silently, followed him from the radius of light. Another figure joined them as they moved cautiously beyond the porch.

"Mollie says George is asleep," Fred explained. "This'll be a good time."

"Hello, Mollie," Bea said. "You've changed sides again?"

"Look," Fred cut in. "Let's not go into that. Mollie did us a favor in coming to tell us when George went to sleep. Now both of you shut up until we get done what we want. Don't forget now. I want that rifle."

"I'll get it for you," the girl promised. "I've been frightened by that nasty old gun and I'll be glad you have it. I can trust you."

"I know," Sillwell said nastily. "Mollie's a good girl. And if Mollie wants to eat her cake and have it too, she'd better not change her mind again."

The rest of the walk to the cave was completed in silence. Fred Sillwell stopped well away from the light of the fire burning at one side of the entrance. From within came a thickened but not unmelodious voice singing.

"He was asleep when I left," Mollie Stark said. "He wakes up, has a few drinks and then goes back to sleep again."

"I guess he might as well wait a while since we're here," Fred decided. "Where does he keep the rifle, Mollie?"

"By his right hand. The hot-ter by his left. There's a flashlight hanging handy near the cave mouth. Just inside. He'll go to sleep again pretty soon. Then he'll be sorry because he wouldn't even give Mollie one teeny snifter."

His foot swung back and he kicked at George's face.

BASCOMBE turned as if in his sleep, took the kick on his shoulder.

Bea Cosgrove stepped in front of his body as Sillwell aimed another kick. She caught his ankle on the heel of her foot.

"I abdicate," George said clearly. "I renounce my rights one and all, including the right of succession to the throne of Sparta Island. Now let me get some sleep."

"Get up. You're coming with us. We're all going to stick together from now on. And after you sober up a little you and I're going to have a little talk."

Bea and George followed Fred and Mollie leisurely. Bea at least noticed the couple were deep in talk. She could not hear the words, so she felt safe to say, "You don't have to pretend to be so drunk any more."

"You see too much," he said at last. "But I suppose you have to notice things when you're in a fix like this. But anyhow I owe you something for not letting Sillwell kick my face in."

"I'd do as much for anyone," Bea said. "And I suppose you know what you're talking about?"

"Oh, since I know all right. And I'm glad the silly king business is over. I was getting awfully sleepy, and I couldn't trust Mollie. I'll be safer with the others."

"Safer?"

"You bet! I won't tell anyone else. But it's easy to kill in cold blood the second time. Or would it be the third? I couldn't trust you now. That's why it was smart for Nona and me to separate."

Bea Cosgrove said, "I thought you were sober. You know you pulled that king act because you were mad at Nona. You did it, and meant it, to get even with her."

"Listen, are you actually trying to say you think I killed Lily Warren?"

He added, "Probably the fishermen too. After all, your gun killed Lily, didn't it?"

to put them across for him.

This is the season when thou-coming to Europe and when Max could have so profitably wanted his idea to be circulated.

Though Max was tergating for the most important of all authorities he felt that no ambassador was any more important than the rest of the American people. In brief, he thought that every traveling American, who that he liked it or not is an unofficial ambassador and a conductor himself abroad as he buds up good will or ill will for his country.

So Max figured it might be a swell idea to take a leaf out of the

Q. I Was An Ambassador.

A. Before the American army landed in England, every day I was given a small booklet telling them about the English people, reminding them that they were a representative of our humanity, that whatever they did would reflect on the American.

The army did not do a job of selling the American soldiers on getting along with their allies and me. I asked the first one, "If you're white, they were excellent ambassadors. If you're black, they were not." Mr. Gurnea then pointed out that an invading army of blacks can be pretty just like an invading army, it was when I was through with fighting on the same side as everybody else, though I was not doing too badly yet, and then get in everybody's hair.

The cautious American tourists who know all, see all and want to tell all can cause his country more harm than an ambulatory bomb. He is not the thing that a quart of dollars can buy for a deficit of courtesy. On the other hand, the kindly American who is much more typical of this country, is a gentle more good with than a paid ambassador, because he has a sense of duty.

At we all know, getting around in Europe had as easy these days. You hold your head against a certain number of slow moving walls, and you get through.

And that's why it's all the more important for a Western

While economy in any company is the challenge of doing business in Europe under the Marshall plan, they have completely overlooked the useful profits rolling back Black of them, the big oil companies alone are gobbling up the profits. The big oil companies are the ones who are making the profits. The rest of the companies have been able to pay for, while many people can drink coffee without life, others suffer from economic indignation at these nights.

The growing, little realized fact is that 20 per cent of the money appropriated for the Marshall plan is spent for all products in Andorra and one dollar, the unit of value, is worth a fantastically profit. What the really amounts to be outpocketing at the expense of European recovery and the American taxpayer.

Here is some of the eye opening facts. It figures it costs the oil company only 40 cents a barrel of Saudi Arabian oil. Let these companies have been charging Marshall plan nations $2.20 per barrel for fuel oil. After a great deal of FICA pressure, this was finally reduced to $1.75 per barrel. Yet for the same oil the navy pays only $1.40 per barrel.

However, the probable explanation for this anomaly is that P&A is not a tough act to follow. The P&A staff is permitted to deal directly with the oil companies, merely picking up the cash and leaving it to local banks to contribute to finance the PCA is constantly hammering at the oil companies, however, to bring their prices within reason. Instead of using the lash of public criticism, PCA is merely snapping the oil boys over the wrist in private. As a result PCA has got nowhere.
